

Name: _____
Date: _____
Section: _____

Video Quiz

1. What is the purpose of an output device?

- A. To allow the computer to store information or programs.
- B. To allow the user to give data or information to the computer.
- C. To allow computers to connect and communicate with other computers.
- D. To allow the computer to display or communicate the result of a computation

2. What is the purpose of an input device?

- A. To allow the computer to store information or programs.
- B. To allow the user to give data or information to the computer.
- C. To allow computers to connect and communicate with other computers.
- D. To allow the computer to display or communicate the result of a computation

3. What is the purpose of a network device?

- A. To allow the computer to store information or programs.
- B. To allow the user to give data or information to the computer.
- C. To allow computers to connect and communicate with other computers.
- D. To allow the computer to display or communicate the result of a computation

4. What is the purpose of a storage device?

- A. To allow the computer to store information or programs.
- B. To allow the user to give data or information to the computer.
- C. To allow computers to connect and communicate with other computers.
- D. To allow the computer to display or communicate the result of a computation